

Environmental Statement

Philosophically, as a company, we believe that it is possible to conduct business and address environmental concerns responsibly as well. Noting that virtually any type of human activity results in collateral environmental consequences, it is this company's intention to pursue strategies that optimize efficient use of resources. Since those natural resource depleting activities are inextricably mixed with monetary costs, fundamentally, the pursuit of efficiency is a sound business practice anyway as it also serves to keep those costs in check.

Beyond the obvious internal measures taken to reduce resource use, we would also seek to promote the recycling effort where it makes ecological sense, even if it is at a cost to the company. Further, we would endeavor to select vendors that exercise sensible environmental practices over those that choose to ignore the issue or who pay lip service to it. Of course, Guernsey Office Products complies with all current environmental mandates regarding hazardous materials/waste and will follow, accordingly, any new regulations geared to address carbon dioxide as a pollutant.

Finally, as an organization, we attempt to keep current with information regarding the environment and our company is active in seeking new solutions to minimize waste involving our customers, suppliers and community in that effort.
